

Yoo-Jin Kang

Original Oulipian Form: "Musical Ten set"

Put your Ipod/Mp3 on shuffle, the first ten song names are to be used in your ten-line, ten syllable poem.

Don't worry love, for you can count on me

To be there for you because you are mine

I want to prove my worth and be a man

Especially in moments when I goosstep

Your cousins will be jealous of your luck

They are angel to you devil to me

And if I don't make it, there is plan B

I've got a dream about the life we'll live

To always look at the silver lining

Even in times of insomnia and pain

Oulipian Form: Inverse Snowball

* Light*

I feel like a fading light that might soon burn out

My glow goes unnoticed, can anyone see

That I am working my hardest to shine

For anyone who cares enough to Stop and look just for a second

Quick, before my time runs out

Brightness is dimming fast

My words become sparse

I'm running out

You need to

Hurry

Look.
